Strengthening Access, Inclusion and Leadership for SRHR in Jamaica ●●●

Canada's SAIL-SRHR Project improves sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR) for adolescent girls and vulnerable and key populations in the southern part of Jamaica.

Aligned with Canada's Feminist International Assistance Policy, this project takes a rights-based and feminist approach, including supporting participatory research initiatives and policy advocacy by young girls and vulnerable groups.

The project team works with health service providers, educators, parents, community leaders, and decision-makers to help them take action to support relevant and inclusive SRHR.
